Cut through the black line

Today is a very special day for the students of Zoolandia Elementary School.

They are on a field trip to the botanical gardens.

Igor the mole and Nico the chameleon are already bored, so they decide to explore on their own.

Nico wants to play and seek, so he hides in some flowers.

When Igor goes to find him, he gets stung on the nose by a bee! It hurts a lot!

Igor's teacher is worried and calls The Zoolandia Hospital for help.

They quickly send an ambulance to pick up Igor.
Carla, the nurse who drives the ambulance, acts quickly.
She takes Igor to the hospital in record time!

Once at the hospital, the first thing Croco Doc does is remove the stinger with tweezers.

He then examines Igor's throat and takes his pulse, to make sure that he's not allergic to bees.

Croco Doc tells him that bee stings are usually harmless, but they can be very dangerous for someone that is allergic to bees!

He then gives Igor's dad a cream to put on the sting twice a day and a medicine for any pain.

Croco smells the flowers and lets out a gigantic sneeze, sending the flowers flying across the room. It looks like Croco is allergic to pollen!

The next day, Igor feels better and goes to thank Croco Doc. He brings him a drawing and a bouquet of flowers for Croco.
