Cut through the black line

Danny the bull just woke up and thinks he can smell his favorite food cooking.

He's right!

His dad made his favorite breakfast, fried eggs!

Something weird happens after breakfast today. Danny's throat starts itching as soon as he finishes eating.

His lips are swollen and his eyes are red!

He then tells him to open his mouth and stick out his tongue so that he can look inside.

First, Croco Doc makes sure the Danny can breathe normally.

Danny and his mom go to the hospital as fast as they can.

Croco Doc thinks Danny might be having an allergic reaction to something he ate.

Next, Danny has to take some medicine that will help his symptoms.

Then, Gloria, the hospital nurse, has to do a blood test to check if Danny has a food allergy.

Once the results are back, Croco Doc confirms that Danny is allergic to eggs!

Poor Danny! He won't be able to eat any eggs for right now, but in a few months they will repeat the test to see if the allergy has gotten any better.

Crat, the omelette was for the allergy test, not for you!

A few months later, Danny is tested for allergies again. His mom brings an omelette to the hospital in order to do the test.
