At the hospital, Croco Doc is very worried.

Swallowing a coin is very dangerous!

An X-ray helps Croco Doc see exactly where the coin is.

Croco Doc takes Tamara to get an X-ray.

Croco Doc uses a stethoscope to make sure the coin isn't stuck in her esophagus. Luckily, it's not.

Since the coin isn't stuck, it will keep going down to the stomach. Sooner or later, it will come out when Tamara poops!

Tamara gets angry and tells Bruno-no to delete it right away because
what she did was very dangerous.
She doesn't want to set a bad
example for other children.

The next time she sees Bruno, he tells her that she is famous!
The video of her swallowing the coin has tons of views.

If the coin would have gotten stuck, Croco Doc would have had to use a tube with tweezers
inside to remove it.

They can see in the X-ray that
the coin is in Tamara's stomach.

Tamara promises that she won't put anything else in her mouth again, except for food. It's very dangerous to put things in your mouth, especially batteries.

A few days later, Tamara sees her coin in the toilet! Instead of flushing it down, she asks his mom
to get it back...

After all, it's her lucky coin!
