Cut through the black line

Today is a hot summer day, and the Bear family has thrown a party at their house...

To inaugurate the pool!

Mrs. Bear calls all the kids: It's time to eat, so they need to start drying off.

But Igor the mole wants to take one last dip. So, when no one is looking, he jumps into the pool. But it's too deep... Igor can't swim and starts to drown!

After calling the hospital, Croco Doc and Hippo Crat arrive promptly.
Igor has swallowed water but is conscious. How lucky he is!

Luckily, Mr. Dog hears Igor and rushes to the rescue.
He manages to pull him out of the water just in time!

Once, Croco Doc had to revive a little monkey who nearly drowned in the pool.

He had lost consciousness!

Now that the scare is over, everyone can relax again, and Croco Doc takes the opportunity to give some safety tips.

The main thing is for kids who can't swim to always wear a float or armbands to stay afloat in the water.

Additionally, there should always be an adult supervising, even if the water is not deep: you always have to be vigilant!

Turn it into an ice-skating rink!

Croco Doc recommends that the Bear family put up a fence around the pool, but they have a better idea...
