Cut through the black line

Jana has come in first place in the Zoolandia Athletics Tournament!

The only downside is that her parents couldn't be there to see her.

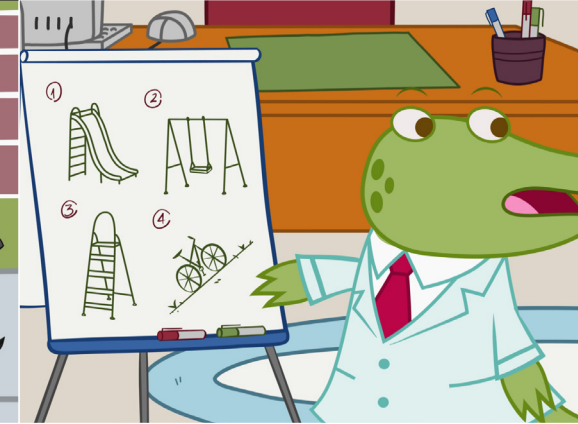

To make sure Jana's brain hasn't suffered any damage from her fall, Croco Doc decides to run some tests.

Jana decides to take a selfie to send to her parents. However, while taking the picture, she gets distracted and falls off the podium. What a hit on the head!

Using a plastic skull, Croco Doc demonstrates how a head injury could affect our brain.

At the hospital, Croco Doc explains to Tamara that she has to be very careful in places with potential risks like slides, swings, high places, and when riding a bike.

However, someone who will take longer to recover is Crat...
From the bump he gets while leaving through the door!

Croco Doc emphasizes the importance of not getting distracted while taking a photo, especially in a dangerous place!

He examines her ears for bruises,
checks her eyes to see if her pupils react well, and ensures that Jana can walk normally.

Everything seems to be fine! Just to be safe, Jana is sent to rest for a while under observation, with an ice pack to reduce swelling.

A few days later, Croco Doc visits Jana's house to make sure the gazelle is doing well.

Jana has fully recovered by then!
